Five Applications from Genesis 27:5-10, 18-29

1. Deception may achieve our goals, but deception is always wrong, and God will never ask us to be deceptive.
2. God can achieve His purposes despite our sinful behavior and/or the sins of others, but sinful behavior always hurts someone.
3. If God blesses us, He is not rewarding us for doing wrong, but despite our having done wrong.
4. When praying for God's guidance, God will never direct us to disobey the Bible's teachings.
5. Consequences follow both good and bad choices, but we may not receive all the consequences we deserve for our good or bad behavior in this life.
