

The Parable of Two Lost Sons

March 17, 2019

Luke 15:11-24

"For this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found.' And they began to celebrate" (Luke 15:24).

The parable of the prodigal son includes two lost sons. The word “dead” means “separated.” When a person dies, their living spiritual part separates from their physical part. The younger son was alive and became “dead” when he emotionally and spiritually “separated” himself from his father even before he left home. Rather than enjoy a loving relationship with a father who obviously loved him deeply, all he wanted from his father was his inheritance and enough money to leave home, which he did. After squandering his riches and returning home to beg for a job as a servant, his father received him joyfully, reclaimed him as his son, and their relationship was made “alive again.” Everyone wanted to have a party to celebrate, but the older son became angry and refused to celebrate his younger brother’s return. His father went and pleaded with him, but he still refused to see his brother. While remaining at home, he became “dead,” emotionally and spiritually “separated,” from his father and his brother. Furthermore, he considered his relationship to his father as one of slavish servitude rather than that of a loving son who wanted to bless his father as part of his family. His father went out and pleaded with him, reminded him that all he had was his, and that he could have celebrated with his friends whenever he wanted. We do not know if the older son was ever made “alive again” and reunited with his father and brother. We can become separated from God, but by God’s grace, become “alive again” and be welcomed back by our Heavenly Father.

Thinking Further

1. When do you think the lost son really left his father?
 2. How does God the Father treat some of His lost children compared to the parables of the lost sheep and the lost coin in Luke 15?
 3. In what ways do the three parables in Luke 15 give you assurance as a child of God?
 4. In what ways do you think the father disciplined his son?
 5. From your study of this parable, how important can a Christian home and regular Sunday school attendance be in the life of a child of God?
